NEW BOOKS FOR SUMMER READING

JUST PUBLISHED

THE SPENDERS

By HARRY LEON WILSON. Six Drawings by O'NEILL LATHAM. Price, $1.50

This is a bright, spirited, brilliant story of men and women of to-day, of America East and West, of the people of the mining camps and the gay society of the metropolis.

NEW YORK JOURNAL says

"The ending is superb. The story sparkles with unusual brilliancy from beginning to end."

DOROTHY SOUTH

17TH THOUSAND

By GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON Author of "A CAROLINA CAVALIER"

Illustrated by C. D. WILLIAMS. Price, $1.50

BALTIMORE SUN says

"No writer in the score and more of novelists now exploiting the Southern field can, for a moment, compare in truth and interest to Mr. Eggleston. In the novel before us we have a peculiarly interesting picture of the Virginian in the late fifties. Characters are clearly drawn, and incidents are skilfully presented."

JUDITH'S GARDEN

By MARY E. STONE BASSETT

Illustrated. Price, $1.50

An exquisite, delicious, charming book, as fresh as new-mown hay. It will catch the interest of every lover of flowers, and will delight and comfort every reader.

THE GATE OF THE KISS

By JOHN W. HARDING

Illustrated. Price, $1.50

BOSTON JOURNAL says

"It can readily be seen that this is no mere conventional romance of Bible times, but a story of notable strength and boldness. It is a splendid tragedy. It marches irresistibly to its culmination."

MARGARET BOWLBY

By EDGAR L. VINCENT

Price, $1.50

BOSTON JOURNAL says

"'Margaret Bowlby' is the kind of book that will interest both men and women. The romance of Robert and Margaret is genuine and appealing. There is not a dull chapter in the book."

'TWEEN YOU AN' I

By MAX O'RELL

Price, $1.20 net; postpaid, $1.35

This volume contains some of the choicest, wittiest, and most searching criticisms of life in general by this celebrated French writer and lecturer.

By ELISABETH PULLEN

Price, $1.50

NEW YORK WORLD says

"No synopsis can give any idea of the whimsical humor with which Mrs. Pullen tells this story. It is but a modest tribute to say that the author's style is as delightful as her plot is original."

FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS ABROAD

By MARGARET SIDNEY

Illustrated. $1.10 net. Postpaid, $1.25

This very newest of the Pepper stories is just as charming as the other famous books that have preceded it in the series.

PUBLISHED JUNE 21

JEZEBEL

By LAFAYETTE McLAWS, Author of "WHEN THE LAND WAS YOUNG." Illustrated. Price, $1.50

LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY, BOSTON

WE WISH TO CALL THE SPECIAL ATTENTION OF THE TRADE to the FIVE BOOKS FOLLOWING

OLYMPIAN NIGHTS

By JOHN KENDRICK BANGS

Author of "The House Boat on the Styx," "The Idiot," etc., etc.

This is a book of fun that is really funny. In the House Boat series Mr. Bangs told the adventures of the associated shades. Here he tells the adventures of the modern, up-to-date gods of Olympus. It is a book that will be widely asked for. We should like to have the orders of the trade as soon as possible.

Fully Illustrated. $1.25

THE KING IN YELLOW

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Author of "Cardigan," "The Conspirators," etc.

We have had many requests from the trade and from readers all over the country for a new edition of this volume of stories. This edition is now reprinted to meet this demand. As the trade will recall, these are the most popular stories Mr. Chambers has written—they won for him his first reputation as a writer of fiction.

Illustrated by Christy. $1.50

THE KENTONS

By W. D. HOWELLS

No American novelist has a wider circle of regular readers than Mr. Howells. There is a demand already created by the announcement of any new book from his pen. The present novel is the delightful story of an American family. It is full of delicate wit and humor, as the LONDON TIMES says, "in, over and roundabout every page."

TALES OF DESTINY

By ELIZABETH G. JORDAN

Author of "Tales of the Cloister," etc.

The author's "Tales of the Cloister" was unusually well received both by critics and readers. The present volume contains twelve stories, not of the cloister, but of men and women of the world. One critic said, "Every woman will read them—so will every man."

ABNER DANIEL

By WILL N. HARBEN

Author of "Westerfelt," etc.

This is a Southern story of droll humor that has already been compared with novels like "Eben Holden" and "David Harum." Without insisting on comparisons, the kind of story Mr. Harben has written could not be better characterized. We have already received large advance orders.

NOTES IN SEASON.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish in this country the Library edition of Ruskin's works, edited by Alexander Wedderburn and E. T. Cook, which will be brought out in England by George Allen, in thirty volumes.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY have added to their People's Library Series "Craque-O-Doom," by Mary Hartwell Catherwood, author of "Lazarre," which, in the cloth edition, has enjoyed a popular success.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just ready Lafitte of Louisiana," a romance founded on the remarkable career of Jean Lafitte during the French Revolution and the War of 1812, by Mary Devereux, author of "From Kingdom to Colony," etc.; also, "A Maid of Bar Harbor," a charming story of Mt. Desert, by Henrietta G. Rowe, giving pictures of the island in its primitive days and scenes after society had taken possession of it.

R. F. FENNO & Co. will publish early in September "Master Adam the Calabrian," a novel by Alexander Dumas that seems hitherto to have escaped the translator. It will be rendered into English by Harry H. Spurr, who has made considerable study of Dumas's works, and whose life of Dumas is shortly to be published in this country. In the preface to his translation he devotes considerable space to proving the genuineness of the present book.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. are about to publish an account of the girl Greek letter societies in the United States, under the title of "American College Sororities." The editor has called in the aid of every chapter of such societies in this country, and expects the book to be practically complete. There will be group photographs, pictures of chapter houses, exterior and interior, representations of badges and emblems, and complete and detailed information about all the national "sororities."

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 17th inst. "Abner Daniel," a story of Northern Georgia, by Will N. Harben, the hero of which will probably take his place with David Harum and Eben Holden as a shrewd and humorous observer of life; also, a new volume of stories by Elizabeth G. Jordan, entitled "Tales of Destiny," which deal with crucial moments in the lives of men and women. They have secured the American rights to all the forthcoming Carlyle letters, both Jane's and Thomas's.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY will publish next week a work entitled "Jesus, the Jew, and Other Addresses," by Dr. H. Weinstock, of Sacramento, Cal. This work presents a discussion of the relations of the Jews to the Gentile world. The author, while writing from the standpoint of the Jew, advocates the newer and more liberal views that are coming to the front, by reason of which the "middle wall of partition" that has hitherto kept the Jew isolated from the rest of mankind is swiftly crumbling to pieces. Dr. Weinstock prophesies that even Russia will soon cease from its anti-Semitic intolerance.

DODD, MEAD & Co. announce for immediate publication "The Founder of Mormonism," a work by I. Woodbridge Riley, dealing more especially with Joseph Smith, and his share in establishing the Mormon faith in America. Mr. Riley has discovered that the antecedents of Smith were strongly touched with epilepsy. He has shown convincingly that the environment in which Smith was brought up was one of an almost insane religious fervor. He was surrounded in his youth by the prophets and dogmas of Millerism, and of similar hybrid sects; and he has traced the effects of this early training upon Smith's later life, and especially upon The Book of Mormon. The work contains an introduction by Professor George T. Ladd, of Yale University.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n.p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

The author was graduated from West Point in June, 1861. He was one of a class of 108 that reported in 1857. To-day but five of the number are alive. He says in his Introduction that "it will be clear to the reader as he progresses that no effort has been made to write a history of the Academy and its methods; that while some space has been devoted to condition of affairs at West Point during the early months of the Civil War, the writer has followed up with a few episodes and reminiscences of that war." Many men who figured in the history of the Academy and in the Civil War are mentioned. Reference is made to the recent trouble in the Philippines.

By the author of "How to form a library" and "How to catalogue a library." The first four chapters of the book are "Historical," namely, Introduction, Amusing and satirical indexes, The bad indexes,

The good indexes. The last four chapters gathered most "Practical" are: Different classes of indexes, General rules for alphabetical indexes, How to set about an index, and General or universal index.

*__Wheaton__, Emily. The Russells in Chicago; il. by Fletcher C. Ransom. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1902. c. 257 p. 16°, (Commonwealth ser.) cl., $1.25.

*__Wilberforce__, Bertrand A. A devout commentary on the Epistle to the Ephesians; drawn chiefly from the works of St. Thomas Aquinas. St. Louis, Mo., B. Herder, 1902. 244 p. 8°, cl., net, $1.

__Wilcox__, Lucius M. Irrigation farming: a handbook for the proper application of water in the production of crops. Rev. and enl. ed. N. Y., Orange Judd Co., 1902. c. 14+494 p. por. D. cl., $2.

Since the publication of the first edition of "Irrigation farming," so many important improvements in irrigation have been made, and new and better methods been introduced, that in order to keep abreast with the times a new edition of this work has become a necessity. Realizing this need, the author has prepared this volume, which has been largely rewritten, entirely reset and considerably enlarged so as to present in systematic sequence and concise form everything pertaining to the most modern irrigation methods and means.

__Wildenbruch__, Ernst Adolph v. Das edle Blut; erzählung; ed., with notes and a complete vocabulary, by C: A. Eggert. N. Y., Amer. Book Co., [1902.] [Je3.] c. 86 p. D. cl., 30 c.

__Wilson__, Harry Leon. The spenders: a tale of the third generation; il. by O'Neill Latham. Bost., Lothrop Pub. Co., [1902.] [My.] c. 8+512 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of to-day, including the people of the mining camps of the west, and the gay society of the east. The central figure is a young man, who inherits millions. The story shows how recklessly he spends it, and how the true nobility of his character shines out, when it is gone.

*__Winchester__, Paul, ed. Around the throne: sketches of Washington society during a recent administration, reported by Paul Winchester. Balt., Md., B. G. Eichelberger, 1902. 12°, cl., net, $1.

*__Wister__, Owen. The Virginian: a horseman of the plains; il. by Arthur L. Keller. N. Y., Macmillan, 1902. [My28.] c. 13+504 p. 12°, cl., $1.50.

*__Works__, J: D. Practice pleading and forms adapted to the new revised code of Indiana; with a full citation of all the adjudicated cases in Ind., and numerous authorities under the practice at common law and in equity, and under the codes of other states. (References to the rev. stats. of 1881, Harner's rev. stats. of 1901, and Burn's rev. stats. of 1901.) 3d ed., thoroughly rev. and greatly enl. vs. 1, 2, 3. Cin., Robert Clarke Co., 1902. c. 30+808; 15+742; 718 p. O. shp., $18.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 14, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

THE BOOKSELLERS' CONVENTION.

THE AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION will join in conference for the second time in New York City, on Monday next, June 16, and will keep in session until the following evening It is not likely that, numerically, the Association will be able to make an imposing showing at this conference; so many circumstances operate against it. It is not reasonable, for instance, to expect that many of the members in the far West, no matter how deeply they may be interested in, nor how earnestly they may be actually working for, reform, will be able to spare either the time or the money to make the long and expensive journey East solely for the purpose of expressing their sentiments. The West, the North and the South therefore will be represented by but a favored few—though, as was the case last year, these few represented large and important interests.

The Association must therefore look to those nearer home to be present en masse, and to make the showing as strong in numbers as we are certain it will be in enthusiasm and suggestiveness. It will repay any bookseller to meet once a year with others of his calling—live men, who, in spite of the deplorable conditions that have so long prevailed in the trade, forced their business and wrested a living from it. Personal contact with such men will greatly encourage and uplift the individual morally, and enrich in practical experience those who may be present several times as much as it would cost them to attend the convention. Let all who may find it practicable to be present take part in next week's conference, and help by their presence to make the national association meeting a success.

ABOUT a year ago English booktrade circles were agitated over the invasion of their field by newspaper syndicates who threatened to absorb the bookseller and by an alliance that planned to exterminate the publisher. The alliance seems never to have lived beyond a very revolutionary and bombastic prospectus. And newspaper bookselling has apparently very nearly become a defunct institution. Some of the various enterprises, according to the London Athenæum, must have been considerable failures. A week ago, at a sale of "remainders" at Hodgson's, fifty-five lots were offered, representing in all one hundred sets, of the Daily Telegraph's "Hundred Best Novels," each set consisting of one hundred volumes, the net cost price of which was probably $20 the set. It is an old story—fools rush in where booksellers fear to take the risk.

WHEREFORE RUSKIN PRAISED PRINTERS.

JOHN HABBERTON, the author of "Helen's Babies," told an interesting story recently, and a Philadelphia paper put it into print. "I am," said Habberton, "a cousin of the New York publishing family of the Harpers, and I worked for the Harpers in my youth, learning with them the printing business. Well, one day they gave me the manuscript of a book of Ruskin's to set up. It was 'The Seven Lamps of Architecture,' or 'The Stones of Venice,' I think. At any rate, it contained a long passage in praise of the work done in the world by the great artists—by the poets, the sculptors, the musicians, the architects, the painters, and so on—and I, for mischief, changed one word in this passage. I substituted for 'painters' 'printers.' Of course, I thought the proofreader would catch the error; my idea was that we should all have a little laugh at Ruskin's eulogy of the printer along with such fine fellows as the musician and the poet, and that then the types should be set right again. But somehow my wilful blunder missed the proofreader's eye, and in that and every following edition for many years it appeared. Hence thousands of Americans have admired the perception and the originality of Ruskin in praising so highly the work of the humble printer, thanks to me."

DENTON'S "BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF NEW YORK."

By Felix Neumann, of the Library of Congress.

[Conclusion.]

I will now try to solve the question whether the title-page was really printed on a larger scale than was the body of the pamphlet, and if not, how it happened that the imprint was mutilated or the date cut off.

Previous to entering upon the subject, however, I shall show how easily one may be seduced into venturing upon the field of speculation, and on the other hand, how dangerous this is in regard to bibliography.

A very simple and obvious explanation seems to be that there were perhaps, two editions printed in 1670. and that the printer used the title-page of the first edition for the second edition, which was printed on small size. Some circumstances seem to justify the theory that there were two editions in the same year.

The reader will remember that the Carter Brown Library (*) in Providence, possesses two copies with two different imprints. The description of one copy agrees exactly with that given in Sabin, except that instead of "at the Three Bibles in the Minories, 1670" it is given "at the Bible in the Minores, 1670." The compiler of the catalogue, John Russell Bartlett, adds the following note: "A duplicate copy of this tract in the collection bears the imprint of 'Thomas Hancock at the sign of the Shop in Pope's Head Alley, St. Paul's, 1670.' The text is precisely alike in the two copies."

Now I may say that I think every bibliographer and cataloguer will believe that when I read this bibliographical description in the catalogue of the John Carter Brown Library, I took the correctness of the statement for granted, and did not doubt it at all. But how great was my surprise, when I communicated with Mr. G. P. Winship, the present Librarian of the Carter Brown Library, regarding these varying imprints and received the following reply:

In regard to the imprint "At the Bible in the Minores, 1670" which I took for a possible inadvertence on the part of the compiler of the catalogue, Mr. Winship says: 'Mr. Bartlett—as it chances—copied the imprint from our small copy correctly, "William Bradley . . . Minores, 1670." This imprint, however, is not a part of the original leaf. It is probably pen work, but an admirable facsimile of some of the xviiith century types; indeed, I am by no means sure that it may not have been printed.' In regard to the second varying imprint, he says: 'The varying imprint is modern, so that no reliance can be placed on it. Both copies have been in the Library some time, fifty years or so.' "

May I now say, that it was, perhaps, not over hasty in me to base my theory that there were two editions issued in 1670, on the description given in the catalogue of the Carter Brown Library, all the more as Mr. John Russell Bartlett, the compiler of the catalogue, did not give anything more than has already been stated, and that without any explanatory note?

But that not only the second varying imprint is modern, but the first also, I can prove from the following fact. There were two editions printed of the second part of the catalogue of the Carter Brown Library, which deals with books printed from 1601 to 1700; one in 1866 and another in 1882, as many additions to the library had been made meantime.

Now in the first edition, 1866, there is only one copy of Denton catalogued, and of the imprint only the words "John Hancock, 1670, are given, while the second edition of the catalogue, 1882, has the imprint as above stated.

I think this proves that the imprint was added later, that is, between 1866 and 1882, either by direction of John Carter Brown, or of the compiler of the catalogue, John Russell Bartlett.

And what is the moral of the story? It proves that one cannot depend upon even the best cataloguer, without seeing the book, or going to the original source of information.

Therefore the theory of a second edition of Denton's Description printed in 1670 cannot be maintained from the printed catalogue of the Carter Brown Library, though another circumstance may perhaps speak for it.

And here I have to clear up another uncertainty. On comparing Gowans' reprint with the original, I found a difference which made me believe that the imprint was done from an edition different from the original in the Library of Congress, and other copies. On the last page of Denton's Description, after the word "finis," is added a book-advertisement which reads, in the copy in the Library of Congress, as follows:

"The Accurate Accomptant or London Merchant, containing an Analysis for Instructions and Directions for a Methodical keeping Merchants Accompts, By way of Debiter and Creditor, very useful for all Merchants or others, that desire to learn or teach the Exact Method of keeping Merchants Accompts, by Thomas Brown, Accomptant; To be sold by John Hancock, at the sign of the Three Bibles in Cornhill, 1670."

This advertisement is literally reprinted in the reissue published by the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, but in Gowans' reprint, after the word "finis" only the following words are printed: "This book to be sold by John Hancock, at the first shop in Pope's Head Alley, at the sign of the three Bibles in Cornhill, 1670."

I made exact copies of the whole of the last page of the copy in the Library of Congress, and sent them to each of the different libraries having copies of Denton in the original, inquiring whether the last page of their copies showed any difference. But I was assured that all the copies are exactly like the copy in the Library of Congress, and have the full advertisement at the end of the book.

Therefore it is evident that the lines "This book to be sold . . ." were manufactured in Gowans's reprint, and that no reliance can be placed upon it.

So the second supposition which would support the theory of another edition issued in 1670, and printed on smaller paper vanishes.

But I think it was necessary to go thus into detail, in order to show what possibilities one must take into account, and also to justify myself for saying "how easily one may be seduced into venturing upon the field of speculation, and on the other hand how dangerous this is in regard to bibliography."

I will now discuss the possibility of another edition later than 1670.

In Gowans's reprint, Gabriel Furman refers to an edition published in 1701. He says "Mensel (X. 367) gives 'Denton's Description of New York, London, 1701, 4°.'" The authority in question is Meusel (not Mensel which is a misprint) and the book in which this bibliographical entry will be found is Meusel's "Bibliotheca Historica," Vol. X, pt. 2, page 367, 1802 (*)

Meusel, of whose bibliographical skill and accuracy such a great bibliographer as Julius Petzholdt () has a very high opinion, adds, after giving the title, () the following remark: "This seems to be a very scarce work, of which no one knows anything except the incomplete title." And Gabriel Furman, after mentioning Meusel as authority for an edition of 1701, continues: "The title as given by Mensel, appears in Ebeling's Compendium of the Histories of New York and New Jersey, with an asterisk, *, indicating that the author has never himself seen the work."

The question now is whether the date of an edition of 1701 can be verified, or found in any American bibliography previous to the appearance of Meusel's and Ebeling's works.

First I will give the date of publication of Meusel's "Bibliotheca Historica," and then of Ebeling's "Erdbeschreibung und Geschichte von Amerika." (†) Part 2 of Vol. 10 of Meusel, in which Denton's Description is mentioned, appeared in 1802, and Volume 2 of Ebeling's work in which Denton was given, was published in 1794, eight years previous to Meusel's Bibliotheca Historica.

The bibliography in which I find Denton's Description mentioned for the very first time is "Bibliotheca Americana, (‡) London, 1789." This catalogue is attributed to A. Homer, but according to Sabin, (|) its compiler was not Homer but Reid.

In this catalogue which gives the works in chronological order, Denton's Description is not mentioned in 1670, but in 1701, and the entry reads only "Denton. Description of New York, 4°, London."

But no reliance, as regards the date, can be placed on this entry. The catalogue represents a very careless bibliographical work—a fact of which the compiler himself is in some way aware, saying in the preface that he is "sensible of several omissions as well as of other errors. . . but he solicits the indulgence of the reader for them, and hopes the difficulty of the work will afford him an apology for inaccuracies."

The scrupulous Meusel, in mentioning the "Bibliotheca Americana," states that he has not yet seen it, but gives in a concise form the essentials of a review published in the famous Allgemeine Literaturzeitung, Jena, 1790 (*) which says that the catalogue itself is not accurate enough, its copiousness unnecessary, and even its chronological order compiled ad libitum. It gives merely the titles of books, and those by anonymous writers are not fully explained, to which may be added that there are books mentioned in it which have no relation to the subject at all.

My personal examination of book titles and dates given in the "Bibliotheca Americana" can only confirm the opinion of the reviewer, and it can therefore be fairly said, that no credibility can be ascribed to the compiler of the "Bibliotheca Americana"—be he Homer or Reid—in regard to an edition of Denton's Description in 1701.

To show that I have used all accessible sources, I must mention two other bibliographical works, which should be consulted in regard to the date, the collation of the pamphlet, and the verification of the imprint.

As above stated, the first American bibliography in which I find mention of Denton's Description is the "Bibliotheca Americana," London, 1789, but this is not the first American bibliography. Irrespective of Leon Pinelo's () "Epitome de Bibliotheca Oriental i Occidental," which need not here be considered, the first American bibliography dealing strictly with books relating to America is "Bibliotecae Americanae Primordia. London, 1713." This catalogue which ranks much higher than the "Bibliotheca Americana" in bibliographical skill and accuracy, takes no notice whatever of Denton's Description, which shows; first, that Denton's pamphlet was not at all well known, and second, may prove indirectly—if we consider that this catalogue was published in 1713, a comparatively short time after the supposed edition of 1701—that such an edition (1701) is erroneous.

The second work to which I must refer, is the "Term Catalogues" (*) of books printed in England, in 1668-1709." In these I find no mention of Denton's pamphlet, either of an edition of 1670 or 1701, but I must add that these catalogues are not supposed to be complete and to contain all the books published in England during that time.

Therefore, in recapitulating my previous researches and considerations, the following facts must be ascertained: first that an edition of 1670 with two different imprints does not exist, and second, that an edition of 1701 was never published.

Having dealt so far with the bibliographical status of the Denton pamphlet, I come now to the technical part, i.e., the condition of the title-page.

As early as 1835, we find in Evans's "Auction Sale Catalogue of the Library of Richard Heber," in connection with Denton's pamphlet, the laconic remark "date cut off"; but neither John Pennington nor Gabriel Furman in the introductions to their reprints of Denton's Descriptions, have called attention to the lacking date, or taken any notice at all of the imprint.

Joseph Sabin is the first one who considers the imprint and date important enough to add to his entry of Denton in his "Bibliotheca Americana," so-called, the following notice, already given above: "The title-page being printed on paper, larger than the rest of the book, the date is often cut off by the binder." Since then, 1873, it seems to be a well established fact, indeed an axiom, with all bibliographers and cataloguers, who have ever dealt with Denton's pamphlet, to say that the title-page was really printed on larger paper than the body of the book. But while the cautious Sabin only asserts "The date is often cut off by the binder," Brayton Ives, in the catalogue of his library, states that "The date at the bottom is uniformly cut off by the binder"—although he claims that his copy was at that time, 1891, the only one in the United States having the date.

There is some probability that Mr. Sabin's theory is correct, but I have to raise one special objection to it, namely: As far as we know, there is no copy in existence which shows the above-mentioned peculiarity, (a larger title-page,) except that in the Library of Congress, which cannot be taken into consideration, as the bottom of the title-page is mended and the last line of the imprint "In the Minories, 1670," is added in facsimile by Mr. Harris, of London, who was very prominent in this line of work, having gained a special reputation through his repairing done for the British Museum. Now let us consider two points in favor of Mr. Sabin's theory. I will first mention that the cutting off of the imprint and the date seems not to be without parallel. For instance, in the Brinley Catalogue (*), Part I., I find in addition to the entry of "Thomas Parker's letter to his sister" [London, 1649,] the following note: "The imprint has been cut from the title-page." The most natural way to find out the real status of the title-page would be to measure the title-pages of the different copies, and compare those which have the imprint and date, with those which are incomplete. But this method will not have the desired result in this case, as so many copies have been mended, (pieced out in modern paper) and have the date added in facsimile. The copy in the Harvard College Library, and that in the New York State Library, tend most to prove Mr. Sabin's theory, as in the former, the body of the "A" at the top of the title-page, and the date at the bottom have been cut away, and in the latter the last line and part of that preceding have been cut off. The line: "Cornhill, at the three Bibles, and William Bradley, at the three Bibles," has been cut diagonally, so that the word "Bibles" remains complete, while the first words, "Cornhill at the three," are entirely missing. This shows that the title-page was in these two instances really cut.

The consideration of how it happened that some copies escaped this mutilation, and others have only the word "London" left to the imprint, (having lost the last three lines entirely,) leads me to advance another theory, which seems to me more probable than that of Mr. Sabin.

In opposition to Mr. Sabin, I think that the title-page was not printed on paper larger than the body of the pamphlet, but that, as the letterpress of the title-page was spread over a much larger space than that of the text, some bookbinders, of more or less experience, cut down the copies which came into their hands for binding. This might the more readily have occurred, as in this instance the printer's name and date are given at the end of the pamphlet, as already stated.

I hope that this theory may prove acceptable, but in any case, I must be content if these lines have opened the path for further research, and lessened the difficulties in the way of it.

It remains to give in a few lines the characteristics of "Denton's Description." As Denton himself stated in his preface—and our present bibliographical knowledge confirms him in his assertion—his pamphlet is the first description of New York printed in the English language. But his tract is not worthy of note for this reason alone. It is my belief that Denton wrote his pamphlet for the sole purpose of attracting immigration, and inducing his fellow-citizens to settle in that "Terrestrial Canaan," as he describes New York. That his description was not unnoticed is shown by John Ogilby in his translation—"augmented with later Observations"—of Arnoldus Montanus' work on "America" (*) London, 1671, who in the chapter which deals with "New Netherlands, now called New York," literally reprints in several instances portions of Denton's work, without, however, mentioning his name, alluding to him only as "a late writer."

With Denton's life, which is full of interest to the student of American history, I will deal in another place.

ROSTAND ANSWERS CRITICS.

EDMOND ROSTAND, who had hitherto not made any statement regarding the judgment of the United States District Court of Chicago granting Samuel E. Gross, the author of "The Merchant Prince of Cornville," an injunction against further performances of "Cyrano de Bergerac," on the ground that M. Rostand's play plagiarized situations in Mr. Gross's work, wrote on June 9, from a watering place, a reply to the theatrical critic of the Temps who sent him a copy of Judge Kohlsaat's decision. Rostand, after saying that he has always refused to take the affair seriously, but that some day, perhaps, he may recount the serio-comic incidents of the suit against him, though actually brought against another person, adds:

"The Gross manuscript was twice in Paris, first in 1879, when I was eleven years old; secondly in 1897, when 'Cyrano' was known to all my friends. I only ask to have in my hands a translation of the Chicagoan piece. I have written to my editor to strive to procure and publish it. In the meantime I am ready to admit I took from Cyrano de Bergerac his name, and the Panache Hotel from Burgundy; Raguenaus from a cook shop; Roxane kissing Cyrano's words on Christian's lips from 'A Voyage to the Moon,' and the siege of Arras and the Cadets of Gascony, in fact all our seventeenth century history, from Eberle Gross, of Chicago, and, in order to end the matter once for all, I confess I stole 'Les Romanesques' from Smithson, of Jefferson City, Mo.; 'La Princesse Lointaine' from Giles Trumbull, of Columbus, O.; 'L'Aiglon' from 'Tom' Sambo of Springfield, Ill., and that I drew the idea of 'La Samaritaine' from the apocryphal gospel of the Rev. Hon. Augustus Wonnacott, of Hartford, Conn. I add that I am negotiating, at the present moment, with a Virginian planter for the purchase of a manuscript, and that I have just purloined from the house of a Louisiana shipowner a great piece on 'Joan of Arc, the Maid of New Orleans.'"

HOW RAIN MAY AFFECT THE BOOK MARKET.

PERHAPS some of the worst sufferers from rainy weather are the papermakers. The paper mills, situated on the banks of running streams, are constantly threatened with floods, which often destroy thousands of dollars' worth of stock ready for delivery. In this connection might be mentioned an unfortunate chapter of accidents caused by water rising around the big mill which made the paper for "Harper's Encyclopædia of United States History." It had taken weeks of steady work day and night to keep the presses supplied with this paper. When the publishers were congratulating themselves that the presswork would shortly be finished, along came a flood and up rose the water, practically cleaning out the first floors of the mill and destroying reams upon reams of paper. This brought the presses to a standstill. After the flood receded the machinery of the mill was cleared from mud, and the making of paper proceeded. In a day or so came another disaster. There was a sudden crash, a man leaped for his life, and the engine was a wreck. Water had got into the valves. It took three weeks to repair this damage, and once again the encyclopædia paper was being made. This shows that rain does more than keep people indoors—it interferes seriously at times with the book market.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE following circular letter has been issued to the members of the American Booksellers' Association:

"We sincerely hope that you, or a member of your firm, will attend our second annual convention to be held at the Herald Square Hotel, Thirty-fourth Street and Broadway, on the 16th and 17th inst., and especially the dinner to be given at the same hotel, by the Association, at 8 P. M., on the 17th inst.

"The convention will be called to order at 2 P. M. on Monday, the 16th inst. After an address by the president, and the report of the secretary and treasurer, an order of business will be adopted and committees will be appointed. The convention will then adjourn until 10 o'clock the next morning.

"Through the courtesy of Harper & Brothers, carriages will be at the door to take our visiting members to the publishing house of the Harpers, on Franklin Square, where a reception will be tendered to us by Colonel Harvey, the president of Harper & Brothers, assisted by Mark Twain, W. D. Howells, Mr. Alden, (editor of Harper's Magazine,) J. K. Bangs, and others of the Harper staff. Our members will not only be given an opportunity to meet these distinguished authors and editors, but also to go through the factory and see the actual process of bookmaking.

"On the second day there will be a full programme at the hall of the convention, from ten till five, and all will be invited to participate in the discussion of the business before the convention.

"All are cordially invited to attend.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE EFFECTIVENESS OF THE WORK OF THE AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

NEW YORK, June 10, 1902.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: It seems that my remarks at the meeting of the Retail Booksellers of New York, on May 26, have been misconstrued, having conveyed the impression that the work of the American Booksellers' Association has been ineffective.

This has been far from my thoughts; there is no one who has a higher regard for the work of the association or appreciates that work more than I. The house I represent, E. P. Dutton & Co., are New York members of the Advisory Board, and it would ill become me to criticise their work.

All honor where honor is due. Were it not for the American Booksellers' Association there would be no American Publishers' Association, and hence no such improvement in the condition of the bookseller as there is to-day.

If I remember rightly, I said, when my opinion was asked as to the advisability of forming an association of New York booksellers: "The American Booksellers' Association already covers the ground, but a local association could be of great good in matters requiring prompt action, as the national association, voting by mail, made action by it necessarily slow." I do not think I used the expression "ineffective."

Will you kindly give this letter such space in the WEEKLY as the matter warrants, and greatly oblige

Yours very truly,
CHARLES A. BURKHARDT.

OBITUARY NOTES.

DR. GEORGE HUGHES HEPWORTH, preacher and journalist, died in New York, June 7. He was born in Boston, February 4, 1833, and was graduated from Harvard Divinity School in 1855. He was pastor of the Unitarian Church in Nantucket and in Boston 1855-1870, with the exception of a year, during which he served as chaplain with General N. P. Banks, in Louisiana, during the Civil War. In 1870 he came to New York as pastor of the Church of the Messiah. In 1872 he became a Presbyterian, and in 1887 he resigned from the pulpit to devote himself to journalism. He was the author of "Hiram Golf's Religion," "They Met in Heaven," "The Life Beyond," "Brown Studies," "On Horseback Through Armenia," "Rocks and Shoals," "Starboard and Port," "Whip, Hoe and Sword," and "The Farmer and the Lord." For years he contributed a weekly sermon to The New York Herald that attracted widespread attention.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MILES AMBER, the author of "Wistons," is, in private life, Mrs. Cobden-Sickert. She is the daughter of Richard Cobden. Her grandmother's name was Millicent Amber, hence the pen name.

CHARLES WOLTON BOYD will write the authorized biography of Cecil Rhodes. He is considered a good selection, as he knew Rhodes intimately and is well versed in South African conditions and development, past and present.

W. PETT RIDGE has just completed a new story which he calls "Erb," the title being the Cockney abbreviation of Herbert. The scenes of the book are not only laid in London low life of the present hour, but in high life as well, the hero being a carman and the heroine a parlor maid.

HERMAN KNICKERBOCKER VIELÉ, whose "Myra of the Pines" has just been published by McClure, Phillips & Co., was born and educated in New York. He went West as a civil engineer when a young man. Later he went to Washington, D. C., where he had the spending of three or four millions in the extension of the city. Several years ago he inherited enough money to give up his profession and travel abroad, where he studied art and literature. Mr. Vielé's first success, "The Inn of the Silver Moon," was brought out by the Stones about two years ago. He is also author of "The Last of the Knickerbockers." Literary ability seems to run in the family, for Mr. Vielé's brother bears the distinction of being one of the very few Anglo-Saxons ever decorated by the Legion of Honor as a French poet.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE London Athenæum, in its issue for May 31, prints a bibliography of Walter Savage Landor's contributions to its columns from January 4, 1834, to April 20, 1861.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CLAREMONT, N. H.—Josiah Gove has opened a handsome new book and stationery store here, to replace the one recently destroyed by fire.

NEW YORK CITY.—We are informed by Cupples & Leon that they have no connection whatever with George W. Ogilvie & Co. They are the exclusive Eastern agents of The Saalfield Publishing Co., of Akron, O., and of the Jamieson-Higgins Co., of Chicago, and have complete sample lines of the publications of these houses displayed at their office, Room 1027, at 156 Fifth Avenue.

NEW YORK CITY.—J. O. Wright & Co. are back in their old quarters at No. 6 East Forty-second Street, which have been rebuilt and equipped with an elevator and other modern conveniences.

NORTHAMPTON, MASS.—Henry T. Mosely has bought A. G. Carley's bookstore.

PALO ALTO, CAL.—The Palo Alto Stationery Company has been incorporated to do a book and stationery business.

PARIS, TEX.—The Wright Book and Wall Paper Company has been incorporated; capital stock, $3000. Incorporated by John W. Wright, James H. Hancock and Alston Gowdey.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. — The Philadelphia Bookstore Company, the object of which is to deal in books, newspapers and periodicals, was incorporated June 6 in Camden. Seymour Eaton, 1319 Walnut Street, of this city, is the principal incorporator, the others being R. Thornton Eaton and John E. Bryant. Capital stock of the new concern will be issued to the amount of $250,000, $1000 of which is paid in. Seymour Eaton is librarian of the Booklovers' Library.

SKOWHEGAN, ME.—Major Frank B. W. Welch, of Loring, Short & Harmon, Portland, Me., has resigned his position with that firm, and together with Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas H. Anderson, of Skowhegan, have opened a book and stationery store in the Baxter block here.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

JAMES GIBBONS HUNEKER has begun a work to be entitled "Franz Liszt and His Times," which he expects to complete in 1904.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish shortly a work entitled "Principles of Arithmetic," by H. O. R. Siefert, superintendent of schools in Milwaukee.

"GEORGE ELIOT," by Leslie Stephen, is the first of the supplemental volumes to the English Men of Letters Series, under the editorship of John Morley.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish in the fall a new novel entitled "Unofficial," by the son of Mrs. Walter Forbes, whose sprightly novel, "The Gentleman," had a large sale.

B. G. EICHELBERGER, 308 N. Charles Street, Baltimore, Md., has just published a book entitled "Around the Throne: Sketches of Washington society during a recent administration. Reported by Paul Winchester."

THE PAFRAETS BOOK COMPANY, Troy, N. Y., have just published a timely book in view of the centennial celebration held this week at West Point, entitled "West Point in the Sixties, with Incidents of the War," by Joseph Pearson Farley, U. S. A.

CHAPMAN & HALL have in preparation a pocket edition, on India paper, of Carlyle's works, in fourteen volumes, at two shillings net. It is interesting to learn that this firm, within the past three years, have sold on an average of 30,000 volumes of Carlyle's works.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish next week "The Church and Its Social Missions," the Baird lectures for 1901, by John Marshall Lang, D.D., principal of the University of Aberdeen. The author is unusually competent to handle so deeply interesting a subject.

W. P. v. STOCKUM & SON, at The Hague, Holland, have published an interesting work entitled "Amsterdam in den zeventiende eeuw," in which the book trade, especially the Dutch music publishing trade of the seventeenth century, is exhaustively treated by D. F. Scheurleer.

GEORGE CLARKE, Decker Building, New York, is bringing out the edition of Voltaire's "Philosophical Dictionary," originally announced by E. R. Dumont, of Chicago. The edition will be in ten volumes, the prices of which have been reduced to $24 and $18 the set.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY will publish shortly "Captain Fanny," a yachting story, by W. Clark Russell; "Lays for Little Chaps," a volume of poems on child life, by A. J. Waterhouse; also, a new edition of Freeborough and Rankin's "Chess Openings," printed from new plates.

MR. HAROLD ROORBACH, whose retirement from business we noted last week, is not the grandson of Harold Roorbach, as the linotype made us say last week, but of Orville A. Roorbach, the compiler of the "Bibliotheca Americana," the first comprehensive bibliography of American books published in this country.

THE FRANKLIN INN CLUB, the Philadelphia association of authors and publishers, opened its house at 1218 Chancellor Street on June 4. The club has now more than forty members, among whom the following publishers have qualified; Henry T. Coates, Joseph H. Coates, George W. Jacobs, Carige Lippincott, Walter Lippincott, J. Bertram Lippincott, and Jay B. Lippincott.

KARL W. HIERSEMANN, 3 Königsstr., Leipzig, has acquired the remaining copies of "Die Ruinenstaette von Tiahuanaco im Hochlande des alten Peru, eine Kulturgeschichtliche Studie auf Grund selbstständiger Aufnahmen," by A. Stübel and M. Uhle, a handsome folio published in Breslau in 1892. The volume is of especial interest and value to Americanists, geographers and ethnographers.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY will publish shortly "By Order of the Prophet," a story of Mormonism, by Alfred H. Henry, who deals with certain admitted conditions, and makes use of the dramatic materials furnished by unimpeachable history. They have also nearly ready "Soo Thah," the story of the Christianizing of the Karens of Burna, by Dr. Alonzo Bunker, who has been for thirty years a resident among this remarkable people.

E. P. Dutton & Co. have just published a story entitled "The Life of John William Walshe, F.S.A.," by Montgomery Carmichael. The story, the scene of which is laid in Tuscany and Umbria, contains much relating to Franciscan studies and the deeper side of Roman Catholic Mysticism. They will publish at once an attractive book on the "English Lake District," by W. G. Collingwood, Ruskin's biographer, who is intimately acquainted with his subject.

The Abbey Press have in preparation a work on "Surgery: Its Principles and Applications," by Hamilton Fish, M.D.; also, a new edition of "The Prince of the House of David," by the Rev. J. H. Ingraham, with a life of the author, by his son, Colonel Prentiss Ingraham, and a series of original illustrations drawn especially for this edition. They will shortly begin to publish a new monthly magazine, the plans for which have been maturing for the past two years.

The Saalfield Publishing Company have in preparation "The Invisibles," by E. Earl Christopher, the story of a secret society in Tennessee that is plotting against the Russian government, "Beautiful Scenes of America," views of American scenery collected by John L. Stoddart, the well-known lecturer; also, "Mother Goose Paint Book," by J. M. Barnett, sketches illustrating the old-time favorites, with a box filled with bright-colored paints and a brush attached to the margin of the book.

A. S. Barnes & Co. have just ready "The Love Story of Abner Stone," a strong story of life in Kentucky, by Edwin Carlisle Litsey, (not E. Carl Litsey, as the name was inadvertently given in our "Summer Number.") They have also ready "A World's Shrine," by Virginia W. Johnson, who describes in vivid language that most beautiful of the Italian lakes, Lake Como, its surroundings, former greatness, etc., with a number of illustrations; also, "Home Thoughts, Second Series," by "C.," (Mrs. James Farley Cox.)

The Burrows Brothers Company will publish on July 1 a reprint of Daniel Denton's "A Brief Description of New York, formerly called New Netherlands," under the title of "New York of Long Ago, 1670-1902." The text will be very fully annotated, and prefaced with the bibliographical introduction by Felix Neumann, of the Library of Congress, that is printing in the columns of The Publishers' Weekly. The edition will be limited to 250 copies on hand-made paper and ten copies on Japan paper.

Thomas Nelson & Sons have just published a "Sunday-school Scholars' Bible," with practical helps and a new Bible catechism, "especially designed for the Scriptural education and religious nurture of the young, and to promote more regular, profitable and enjoyable use of the Bible in the home, in the Sunday-school and in all young people's societies," by prominent Sunday-school workers, and edited by the Rev. Dr. A. F. Schauffler. This edition is set in ruby type, and contains a number of illustrations and six colored maps.

Drexel Biddle, Philadelphia, has just brought out in neat pocket edition form "The Star-Gazer's Hand-Book," a brief guide for amateur students of astronomy, by Henry W. Elson. He will publish shortly "A Wanderer's Legend," a religious romance, by Professor Maxwell Sommerville, author of "Engraved Gems;" also, "Her Lord and Master," by Martha Morton, the author of the popular play of the same name, and her sister, Virginia Morton, with illustrations by Howard Chandler Christy. He has in preparation a novel by Alfred Henry Lewis, author of "Wolfville Days;" also, a new book for young people, by Carolyn Wells.

Francis W. Halsey, who has been for twenty-two years a member of the staff of the New York Times, has retired from journalism, and entered the service of D. Appleton & Co., as chief of their literary department. Mr. Halsey was born at Unadilla, N. Y., October 15, 1851, and was graduated from Cornell University in 1873. He was literary reporter for the New York Tribune from 1875 to 1880, when he became associated with the Times as a writer of reviews of books. Since 1891 he was in charge of the book department of the Times, until the establishment, in October, 1896, of the Saturday Review of Books, of which he became editor.

D. Appleton & Co. have just ready the first volume in Appleton's Life Histories, namely, "Father Marquette, the Explorer of the Mississippi," by Reuben G. Thwaites, the editor of "The Jesuit Relations," who, building up from Marquette's own writings and those of his contemporaries, has produced a work that will be valuable for its historical accuracy, and peculiarly timely in view of the coming celebration of the Louisiana Purchase. The next volume in this series will be "Daniel Boone," also by Mr. Thwaites. They have also just ready an important contribution to the subject of penology in Dr. Benjamin Howard's work on "Prisoners of Russia," with an introduction by General O. O. Howard; also, "The Way of Escape," a novel of extraordinary interest, by Graham Travers, (Dr. Margaret Todd.)

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 298 Broadway, New York

A SUCCESSFUL publisher is one who constantly seeks to get the best value for the least money. That's why I am a successful bookbinder. Also because I turn out the highest grade of work at from ten to twenty-five per cent. less than anyone else. How do I do it? That is the burning question amongst the trade to-day.

My answer is, "Don't ask the why and the wherefore," but send me your stamps and dummies and I will make up samples which will show the highest character of work and upon which I will give you estimates that cannot be met. My equipment and plant is the finest and one of the largest of its kind in the country. Large output and small profits are the keystones to my success. Don't take my word for these statements. Come and see for yourself.

For 1902

PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

(Thirtieth Year)

In response to the desires of the book trade we shall publish the forthcoming issue of THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL, to be ready at the opening of the active Fall season, in August, 1902, to the publishers' catalogues contained therein. The books will be indexed by author, title and, practically, by subject or class. The name of series, the price, and name of publisher will also be given, so that any book contained in the ANNUAL may be located at once by whatsoever clue the user may have. The Index will be printed in two columns to the page, in readable type, full face letters being used to make reference to authors' names more convenient.

With a Complete Index

The bulk of the volume, as heretofore, will consist of the latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm names, with the smaller lists and advertisements of single books at the end. The patent "Duplex Index," having the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, enables instantaneous reference to the catalogues and the lists, whether the book is open or shut.

These lists, thus bound together, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working tool as to have made THE TRADE LIST ANNUAL for upwards of a quarter of a century indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books. With the reference index to the books listed in the publishers' catalogues its practical usefulness will be enhanced an hundred fold.

The work will be offered to the trade in two styles :

With the Index, ... $5 00
Without the Index, ... 1 50

if ordered and paid for in advance of publication. Orders, stating whether the volume is desired with or without the index, should be registered at

The Office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY
(P. O. Box 943) 298 Broadway, New York

☞We shall also supply the new volume of the ENGLISH REFERENCE LIST for which we control the American market. Further particulars as to price will be given later.
